

Writing a Paper

1.

Give Yourself Time!

Massed Practice

Spaced Practice

Total Time

Writing is stressful when you're on a time crunch!

You've got this!

Start earlier and work in shorter bursts!

2.

Plan your Approach!

Rather than jumping straight into writing, plan your approach, and be intentional!

Ask yourself:

- Have I thoroughly read the directions?
- Who is the audience of the paper?
- What is the purpose of the paper?
- What resources, research, or information would help me?

Thinking through these is a great first step!

What's a Thesis?

A thesis is one or two sentences that guide readers through the layout of your paper

Use these to help you write your thesis!

A Guide to Revising

Global

An important part of revising is rethinking, reorganizing, and critically evaluating.

Make sure any changes are aligned with your thesis!

Local

This is the part where you double check for any spelling errors, critically evaluate your sentence structure, and proofread for any grammar errors!

Consult the Experts!

Writing Center

Free help with writing ideas, organization, logic and argument

Purdue OWL

A guide to citations, grammar, avoiding plagiarism, and subject specific writing

